

Plex setup

You've got access to a private Plex server called patplex v2 — Movies, TV Shows, and Audiobooks. It works from anywhere, not just at the house.

1 Accept the invite. You'll get an email from Plex. Click the link, or go to app.plex.tv and accept it there. Sign in with your Plex account or make one — it's free, and you don't need Plex Pass.

2 Install the Plex app.

DEVICE	GET IT
iPhone / iPad / Apple TV	App Store
Android / Google TV / Chromecast	Play Store
Roku, Fire TV, LG, Samsung, Xbox, PlayStation	Search "Plex" in the device's own app store — full list at plex.tv/apps-devices
Computer	Nothing to install — use app.plex.tv

3 Sign in and pick the server. Use the same account you accepted the invite with. In the sidebar, choose patplex v2. The libraries are under it.

4 Set up Overseerr — this is how you ask for stuff that isn't there. Go to overseerr.patplex.net and click Sign In with Plex. Same account, no new password. Search for a movie or show and hit Request — for a series you can take the whole thing or just some seasons. It downloads and appears in Plex on its own, usually within a few hours. Overseerr also tells you if something's already on the server, so check there first.

There's no Overseerr app — it's a website. On your phone, open it in the browser and use Share → Add to Home Screen and it behaves like one.

Done — press play.

If it buffers: in the app, Settings → Video Quality → lower the remote streaming quality.

If anything else is off: text Pat.
